You are invited, as women, to move the edge of consciousness, through collectively inquiring into this question, from the presence of Source:

What new ways might we sense for consciously participating in the radiance of the universe?

Women Moving the Edge is a collective, integral practice. Women participating in this program are invited to come to a place of Open Mind, Open Heart and Open Will. From this quality of individual alignment and authenticity, we share with each other in the circle, through verbal and non-verbal means. Sensing, speaking and acting from Source is a feminine way of knowing we can reconnect with.

This culminates in a collective field of attention, a holding space from where we connect with our guiding question. We are called, each time, to gather around an unmanifest potential. Seeking to explore that potential, we have developed the practice of collective sourcing.

Women Moving the Edge is a continuous process and we sense that we are moving into a new phase. The place and space we are invited to collectively sense into is widening and deepening. There seems to be an inner world within our world where we can interact with the subtle realms that interpenetrate with our physical reality.

Entering into this relation in a conscious way gives a new dimension to understanding co-creation. On the one hand we have a desire to respond to a call from inner places of the world:

Come as you are, that we may delight in your being, as you delight in each other.

On the other hand, if we would invoke a poetic response from the world that can help guide our way forward,

What then becomes possible?

Women Moving the Edge applies the Wholeness of Knowing. From experience we realise that we can know so much more when engaging all our senses. We invite all arts and forms of subtle knowing. Bring your talents and any materials you/we need!

Collective Sourcing / Presencing means multi-tasking:
You are a participant in the unfolding process.
You are an observer of the place where your actions and ideas come from.

You are tuned in to the collective and subtle field that you are engaged in.

You are a leader of the process, like all other participants.

This program offers you:

A deep ground for practice in being fully present.

A rare experience of being in a truly generative space.

A conceptual understanding of collective presencing.

An opportunity to contribute to this inquiry in service of wisdom and evolution.

As your hosting team we do not facilitate, rather we host this collective, emergent process. We do this by engaging ourselves fully in the collective inquiry. Our intention is for emergence to happen and we apply our mastery and offer teachings wherever needed and useful.
